Chris McElroy

Winner of Peninsula Glass Guild Student Scholarship Award

Chris McElroy is in his senior year at VCU working towards a BFA in Crafts with a concentration in glassblowing. He has been flameworking for almost two years, and blowing glass for almost one. At VCU Chris has studied glass under the instruction of Kent Ipsen, Jude Schlotzhauer, Emilio Santini, and Rick Schneider. He has also studied glass at Penland School of Crafts, under the instruction of Sally Prash, Richard Ritter, and James Minson. Chris's current work varies greatly, from structural sculptures, to wonky goblets. He is constantly exploring the infinite directions that glassworking may take.
